Description:

Mentoring and developing the students' as per their likings and future aspirations is a challenge particularly with diverse economic and social background of students. Many students choose their career path without receiving proper advice and training from suitable professional or institute services. All students of a particular class study regular courses which primarily make learners 'Jack of all, Master of none'. The result is students are not directly employable in any core technological sector. Offering a choice based system is one of the options. However this option has many limitations in smaller institutions. Hence out of box thinking and its implementation is necessary to develop the desired skills in students.

This webinar primarily focus on how we have conceptualized and implemented SCOPE program which is choice based skill certification training for students.
